Key Findings & Highlights

Infosys' offerings are driven by providing end-to-end solutions and capabilities as an ecosystem orchestrator (in addition to being a solution provider) and delivering long-term ecosystem value. The company offers blockchain services in three categories of blockchain consulting services, blockchain business network services, and blockchain enterprise services.

Infosys Blockchain Suite of Solutions is principally blockchain platform-agnostic and can run on Ethereum, Hyperledger Fabric, R3 Corda, and other platforms. The suite covers six key themes: supply chain, BFS, citizen services, insurance, manufacturing and retail, and telecom. It includes more than 30 business and technology accelerators six key themes of supply chain, BFS, citizen services, insurance, pharma supply chain, telecom.

Infosys also offers its Blockchain Testing Framework for functional and performance testing across distributed ledger technologies for testing scenarios ranging from unit tests to integration and systems tests.

Infosys uses a centralized delivery methodology to drive its blockchain services. It has dedicated blockchain specialists, where they are primarily located in CoEs in India, and the remainder is located in various geographic and industry-specific hubs.

Infosys targets Fortune 100-scale enterprise-level organizations for its blockchain offerings. The company's engagements are dominated by North America. The company's engagements primarily come from telecommunications and media, followed by BFS.
